

UNIVERSITY of TASMANIA

University of Tasmania Northern Transformation Program

The Northern Transformation Program has reached an exciting milestone in the redevelopment of the University of Tasmania's new campus at Inveresk with the master plan.

The University of Tasmania is now seeking feedback from the Tasmanian architecture, design and construction professions.

The master plan concept provides an overview of the long-term development of the site, including the types of facilities being built and how they will integrate with the existing structure, as well as the broader Inveresk Precinct.

This is an important phase in the process and precedes detailed design.

Kirsten Orr and James McKee will present the master plan, next steps and there will be time for questions at the end. The session will include:

- An update on the project
- View the master plan concept
- Discussion of the values and aspirations for the site
- Outline of the next steps, timelines
- More ways to view the plan
- How you can be involved and inform detailed design

Hobart: 5pm-6pm Thursday 3 August,
Centre for Architecture, 1/19a Hunter St

Launceston: 4pm-5pm Tuesday 8 August,
IC118 Seminar Room, School of Architecture & Design

RSVP to nicole.dobber@utas.edu.au by COB Wednesday 2 August