SO - IL is an internationally recognized architectural design firm based in New York, founded by Florian Idenburg and Jing Liu in 2008.

Our diverse team is engaged in the production of buildings, interiors, furniture, and landscapes around the world. Through active dialogue that considers context, function, and opportunity, we act as a creative catalyst, orchestrating matter and space to explore new ways of interaction with our surroundings. We design to engage our evolving world. Our process melds digital technology with traditional craft, moving off the screen into physical space.

The result is participatory: we create open platforms of exchange that welcome transformation and reinterpretation, working with clients and collaborators to realize the unique vision of each project. We believe that architecture has the power to offer a sense of wonder and place.
